

SAN FRANCISCO STREET LIGHTED; CELEBRATION WHEN LIGHTS BURN

Chamber of Commerce Keeps Open House; Pioneers on Street Shoot Fireworks Like Old McGinty Club Times; Fred Harvey Gives Dinner to Celebrate the Event; No Band Appears For Concert.

EL PASO'S dream of an illuminated San Francisco street, leading from the union station to the center of the business district, was realized Tuesday night when, at 8 o'clock, mayor Tom Lea turned on the switch that lighted 32 lamps lining San Francisco street. The event, representing a year's work on the part of the chamber of commerce, was witnessed by several thousand people scattered along either side of the street, and was heralded with the honking of hundreds of automobile horns and the shooting off of fireworks.

No band was present to play for the opening ceremonies. An effort was made by the chamber of commerce to get one of the military bands to play, but the musicians' union declined to give the necessary permission for the use of the army band, a requirement of the federal law regulating the playing of military music in civil affairs.

Tuesday noon R. B. Orndorff, president of the chamber of commerce, was informed by a representative of the musicians' union that the Municipal band, composed of members of the musicians' union, would play the concert which it had been planned to have the army band give in Pioneer plaza and for the parade down San Francisco street. This was announced by Mr. Orndorff and the band concert was expected, but no band appeared at the appointed hour.

Power Is Turned On.
The current that caused San Francisco street to spring suddenly from a darkened thoroughfare into a brilliantly lighted highway was turned on by the mayor at the El Paso Electric Railway company by mayor Lea. No ceremony attended the event. The mayor motored to the power station, turned the switch, and then hurried to the union station, where he waited for the guests. He and his aides and directors of the chamber of commerce sat down to a dinner at the El Paso Hotel.

Harvey Dinner.
The guests at the dinner were seated at a long table located in the center of the dining room. Those present were: R. B. Orndorff, president of the chamber of commerce; mayor Tom Lea; and aldermen J. P. O'Connor, R. B. Stevens, John W. Fisher, and W. G. Jolly. Robert Krakauer, R. B. Potter, Walter Kohlberg, George LeBaron, W. G. Roe, H. S. Beach, H. L. Pritchett, George Maslin and W. R. Martin.

Mr. Orndorff acted as toastmaster and, following the serving of the dinner, called on all present for short talks. Introductory to the speechmaking, Mr. Orndorff thanked Mr. Maslin for the banquet on behalf of the chamber of commerce.

Mayor Lea stated that great credit was due Mr. Krakauer, former president of the chamber of commerce, for the consummation of the lighting of this tribute to the chamber of commerce. "With much men as are now behind the organization, El Paso will be made the greatest city in Texas."

Robert Krakauer spoke briefly. He gave much credit for the consummation of the scheme to former secretary A. W. Reeves, and to H. L. Pritchett, lighting superintendent of the El Paso Electric Railway company. The lighting of San Francisco street was but the beginning of a better lighting system in El Paso, he declared.

Great Civic Event.
"The illumination of San Francisco street is one of the greatest events in the history of our city," said Mr. Krakauer. "It marks an era in civic growth for it means that other business streets will be illuminated in the same manner."

All Babies Destined to Great Achievement
To be born is to be great. For there are possibilities in every tiny human life. And for the reason every one should remember that whatever is done to aid the mother, to relieve her of distress during her trying months, will surely be of marked benefit to the child.

Among the sterling aids is a splendid external remedy known as "Mother's Friend." It is what is called an emmenagogue. It is applied to the abdominal muscles, gently rubbed by your own hand, guided by your own mind. It makes the muscles pliant, they expand quite naturally and the effect upon the nerves is such that they adjust themselves to the process of expansion so that pain from this source is almost eliminated. Women who use "Mother's Friend" are relieved of a great many minor distresses, all apprehensions disappear and those peculiar nervous "dreads" no longer disturb the night. It is well named "Mother's Friend." Get a bottle today of your friend. Then at once write for a most entertaining and instructive book for all prospective mothers. fitting occasion for a celebration and it is an appropriate one."

H. L. Pritchett told of the work of installing the system. George Maslin, the host, expressed his belief that the lighting of the street would cause much favorable comment from visitors passing through El Paso.

Station Train Sheds.
W. R. Martin, superintendent of the Union Passenger Depot company, spoke briefly. He suggested that efforts be made to tell the farmers of central and middle west states of the El Paso country. Replying to the country R. Bench, he stated that he hoped to see the matter agitated and the improvement made at the union station.

Alderman J. P. O'Connor spoke briefly, as did J. W. Fisher, H. S. Beach, and George LeBaron. The latter, manager of the El Paso Electric Railway company, told of the installation of the system on San Francisco street. He stated, he had some five miles of streets lighted in the same manner and expressed the hope that El Paso business men would light other streets in the same manner. He called attention to the fact that 24 years before, to a day, the first electric lights in El Paso were turned on.

Saw First Lighting System.
Alderman R. B. Stevens told of seeing the installation of the first lighting system in El Paso. In those days, we had the main cable. After a while we got electric cars, and now we are so swift that we have to have the lights.

Alderman W. G. Jolly spoke briefly and was followed by George LeBaron, who told of coming to El Paso some 20 years and voluntarily adopting it as his future home. "The spirit of the place impressed me and I decided to stay. I made it my future home. I am growing up with El Paso and propose to make it my home always."

George LeBaron spoke of the desirability of the chamber of commerce, or some other organization, putting two energetic men in the middle west to tell the farmers of the Rio Grande valley. He thought that the best telling of the worth of the valley would be sufficient to bring farmers here in large numbers.

W. G. Jolly stated that his fondest hope is to see a convention held in El Paso large enough to take care of conventions of large size.

Only Native El Pasoan.
Walter Kohlberg claimed the honor of being the only native El Pasoan present at the celebration.

Improvement committee of the chamber of commerce, he spoke in behalf of playgrounds for children and garden spots, particularly the latter, which he said the city council should take up.

Reception and Fireworks.
During the celebration the chamber of commerce kept a large number of people in the city. The celebration was held at the El Paso Hotel.
